Beyond The Horizon

by Pastor Tom Buratovich

Maturity is an important goal for the New Testament church.

Maturity is equated to knowing Christ more, deeper, better, so that our lives look more like Jesus.

Christians everywhere should regularly renovate their agreement between themselves and Jesus. In the same way the Old Testament transitioned and held its breath to become the New Testament, so our lives require regular massive renovation.

Jesus said, “Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up.” (John 2:19) his disciples were thinking about the physical temple, but Jesus was referring to his body.

Grand Avenue is in the process of painting its facia. “Repaint this facia and I will smooth the rough parts of your spirit.” First church is planning to replace its office HVAC unit, “Destroy this HVAC unit, and I will rebuild it and make it new. We only look at buildings; God is looking at the heart.

We invite you to journey with us as we remake, restore, and reactivate the vision of the church that it might remake, restore, and reactivate a community in such deep darkness it does not even realize it. We feel that darkness too. We feel it when we try to look beyond the pandemic, when we feel a flat-lined emotional response to things that once gave us abundant joy. Our community lives this, and God is calling us to use us in His grand rescue plan.

When we think of ourselves as part of His rescue plan so many ways come to mind – feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, visiting the sick, listening to the downcast, the broken, the oppressed. God gives us authority to so that ... We, you, me, the church, Grand Ave, First Church, might be ambassadors of God’s disaster response team!

We are people of Porterville, a blend of rugged can-do spirit, deep dependence on God, combined with a virtue of acceptance characterized by our identity as Methodists. We have a passion for helping people developing processes focused on eradicating hunger, pain, homelessness, poverty. We excel at funneling resources to ensure that no child gets neglected, no parent is under-resourced, and no authentic need goes unaddressed if it is in our power to meet it.

God has designed the church to be a place, “full of mercy and good fruits” (James 3:17). We plan to do this and ask you to pray for us as we organize ourselves around these priorities.

Let us strive for maturity in the new year. Let us strive to know Jesus better in the new year. Let us strive to rescue those yet to hear of the good news of Jesus which allows us to renovate our great churches to be used as God’s vessels to help the helpless, discouraged, depressed, and frustrated to find love, acceptance, guidance, and encouragement! Let us start the slow but ubiquitous march into the horizon of maturity in Christ!

Philippians 3:13-14 “Brothers and sisters, I do not consider myself yet to have taken hold of it. But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus.”

Happy New Year! It sure feels good to say that to all of you. I imagine that each of you are as excited as I am that we are leaving another year in our past and entering a new year that brings with it new possibilities and refreshed hope in what God has in store for us. Many of us will follow the tradition of making New Year's resolutions beginning of January 1. Our minds and hearts will be steadfast on meeting the goals we have set forth for ourselves for 2022. Like many of you, I have a few goals that I look forward to meeting and I am excited for the journey ahead.

When making New Year's resolutions, or personal goals, many people will focus on health, wealth, and personal happiness. There's nothing particularly wrong with having goals focusing on these topics, but unfortunately, most of the goals people set for themselves center around worldly achievements and the acceptance of others, while leaving God out of the picture. For instance, I have a goal to lose weight and get healthy this year. Many people share the same goal. We have a problem, and it needs to be addressed. But is our motivation to get healthy inspired by how people may view our current state or how our future new and improved looks may bring with it claps on the back from people who congratulate our success? Or is our motivation to achieve this goal of getting healthy centered around honoring God and bringing Him glory by purposely caring for the body He blessed us with?

Our perspective towards achieving a goal will either fuel the motivation to set ourselves up for success or empty our tanks of the determination we need to succeed. If our perspective is determined on the opinions and views of society, we set ourselves up for an uphill battle that is difficult to win. On the other hand, when God is at the center of our perspective towards our goals, we will look at our challenges differently. We know that with God all things are possible. And, if our goals line up with a way of being that brings Him glory and follows His will for our lives, we set ourselves up to be victorious.

I pray that each of you will be blessed in your resolutions this year. May they draw you closer into the arms of the Lord, enriching your relationship with Him with each step you take. Happy New Year to you and yours!

God is Love,
Ryan Ridenour

No Regrets

January is here and we are at the beginning of a New Year. With a New Year comes a whole lot of New Year's Resolutions. Things that we want to change in our lives and lots of brand new goals. Many of these goals that we have for ourselves, though they are good goals, are based on guilt and regret.

For instance, a goal that many people have at this time of the year is losing weight. Losing weight is a very good goal to have. Though, the reason why we decide to do this is because we ate too much over the holidays. Literally, we say "Ugh! I ate too much over the holidays. I'm going to make a New Year's Resolution to get this weight off." While saying this, we are filled with regret, in our mind. Thinking things like "If I just hadn't eaten so much at all those get togethers" or "Why did I have to eat dessert every night for the whole two weeks of the holidays?" See. There it is. A goal based on regret and guilt. In November and December, when we ate to much, we weren't thinking of dieting and had no regrets as we were eating wonderful food and enjoying the company of friends and family. Then why, do we torture ourselves in January and suffer in guilt.

In Isaiah 43:18, the Bible says "Forget the former things; do not dwell in the past." God does not want us to dwell in the past. He doesn't want us to feel guilty, regret things that we have done, suffer for our sins, or make New Year's Resolutions based on regret. That is why He sent Jesus to us. To suffer, in our place.

God knew that it was human nature to feel these things and that we tend to not let go of them. So, He has instructed us to forget these things and live in the present. If we don't let these things go, we won't be able to see the many blessings that He gives us daily. God wants us to know Him and, enjoy Him and live our lives to the fullest.

As we move through the beginning of this New Year, let's remember that it is a time for new beginnings and resolutions. But the truth is that with God anytime is a time for a new beginning.

Thank You!

Thank you to everyone who helped with the Children's Christmas Program. Thank you to both churches' teachers for making it a success. Thank you to the children for their amazing performance. Thank you to the parents for bringing their children to church. Thank you to Paulette McFarlin for running the projector and playing the handbells. Thank you to Ann White and Deane Rhoadarmer for helping with Santa and Pam Loverin for providing special refreshments.

When the Fire Burns Out

By Judy Lowery

“Do you not know? Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He will not grow tired or weary, and his understanding no one can fathom.” Isaiah 40:28-31

After Al and I moved to our country home in the summer of 1987, we realized that the main source of heat was a large wood stove in the living room. When it came time to use the stove, we quickly found out that the wood stove was a lot of work, including the necessity of cutting, splitting and stacking the wood beforehand.

Unless he ordered a cord of wood, Al did most of the cutting and splitting himself. I only had to do the stacking. It was a hard, time-consuming job.

After building the fire each evening, the challenge was in keeping it going through those winter nights when the temperature dropped below 35 degrees. There were a few times when it went out completely and had to be started up again from scratch.

I remember feeling dismayed at opening the door of the stove only to find ash, not wanting to build a new fire in the middle of the night. It was tempting to just pile on another blanket and go back to bed.

Then the ash and soot had to be cleaned up periodically, a dirty job. Piles of ash had to be scraped through a grate in the bottom of the main compartment into a pan below. The leftovers were shoveled into a bucket.

After the heavy bucket and metal pan were emptied, the area inside as well as outside the stove had to be swept. More ash and mess. The glass window, blackened with soot from many fires, also had to be cleaned off. When the project was finished, we'd sit back and enjoy seeing the crisply burning fire through the clear window—until it was time for the next cleaning!

Burnout seems to sneak up on me easily during this time of year with much to do for the holidays. When I get tired out physically, emotionally, spiritually, or all of the above, one thought seems to play over and over in my mind: “This is just too hard.” That thought only generates more burnout, making it even harder for me to face the demands of life.

When I read the verses above from Isaiah 40 one morning this week and remembered that the Lord doesn't grow tired or weary, my soul began to feel comforted. If I could just rest in the Lord, facing each new moment of the day with Him, things wouldn't seem so difficult.

The rest of that passage was also comforting: “He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak. Even youths grow tired and weary and young men stumble and fall; but those who hope in the Lord will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint.” *

What a wonderful promise! Strength to the weary, power to the weak! Rather than focusing on the thought, “It's just too hard,” putting my hope in the Lord and trusting in Him brought a sense of renewed strength, just as Isaiah said it would.

Tired and uncomfortable, ready for a long rest after their journey and maybe a shower too, Mary must have been disappointed when she and Joseph finally reached their destination, but couldn't find lodging. No place to stay, with a baby due at any time?

After traveling all of the way from Nazareth to Bethlehem on the back of a donkey, I wonder if the thought “This is just too hard!” came to her mind? But then, not long after their arrival in Bethlehem, came the birth of her baby, Jesus—the fulfillment of the promise that God had made to her through the angel Gabriel. With Jesus came renewed hope and joy.

God brings renewal, strength and joy to each one of us as we put our trust in Him.

May the Lord bless you in the New Year!

“Ashes”

*When ashes have collected in a gray, powdery pile
and the flame of love
has died out in my heart, help me remove the ash and bring in more fuel.*

Then, Lord....

*Ignite my heart with the spark of your Spirit that it might always burn
with love for You.*
